We have 5 admins here for twitter and facebook so I am trying to find out what the needs are before I sign up to be an admin...are we only reposting a retweeting HQ posts at this time?

Thanks!

You can send me a friend request (<https://www.facebook.com/Personal Account/Ex. 6>). Facebook identifies you by your email address. For me to add you to a page you have to either be my friend or I have to identify you by your email address. I won't do anything with your email address – and will probably forget it in 10 seconds.

If you want you can create a new Facebook profile with your epa.gov email address. This actually violates Facebook's terms of service (there is a one account per person clause) so I can't recommend you do that. And, personally I find it annoying to have to sign in and out of different accounts. I use my personal Facebook account to manage all EPA pages. (And there is no way for the public to ever see I am an admin of EPA Facebook pages.)

I do not want to use my personal account...is there another way?

Send me whatever email address is listed in your Facebook account settings (it may be your personal email - mine is).

Or you could just send me a friend request.
